BRITAIN FOR THE BRITISH!

MEDIA COVER-UP ON BLACK RIOT!

ON WEDNESDAY 24th May over a hundred Black youths rioted in the Heath Town area of Wolverhampton.

Shops were looted, buildings burned and bricks and firebombs were thrown at the Police. Mayhem reigned in a part of Britain for nearly three hours as police in full riot gear desperately tried to bring the situation under control.

ATTEMPT

The next day the media reported the event without any mention of the racial origin of those involved and blamed the disturbance on the cocaine drug 'crack'. Newspapers and television alike deliberately kept the real facts of the riot from the British people.

It was a pathetic attempt to shore up Britain's crumbling multi-racial society by trying to hide the misdemeanors of coloured immigrants from the eyes of the British people.

FAILURE

The attempt to establish a multi-racial society in Britain has proved a dismal failure. It's now time to return Britain to the British people by stopping coloured immigration and returning the immigrants back to their land of ethnic origin.

ONE LAW FOR THEM ONE LAW FOR US

UNION JACK FLAGS were confiscated in Lye, West Midlands, by the Police during a Moslem march through the town on Saturday 20th May.

150 patriotic Britons, many of them members and supporters of the National Front were showing their opposition to the march that was bringing Asian wars to Britain's shores. But the Police were so concerned that the Union Jacks would offend the marchers that they searched the demonstrators and removed them from bags before they were even unfurled.

While the flags of our country were deemed to be offensive and held in custody along with a banner proclaiming 'No Asian Wars on Britain's Shores', Asians were allowed to march with placards proclaiming 'Kill Salman Rushdie' - a clear incitement to commit murder.

Eighteen British people were arrested for daring to tell the marchers to go back to their own country.

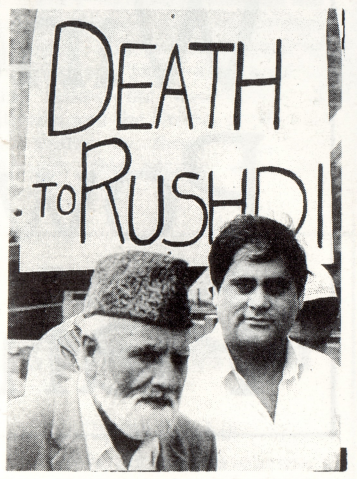
Petrified

In Britain today their is clearly one law for the privileged ethnic minorities in our midst and another law for the beleaguered British people. The Police are petrified that unless the coloured immigrants are given everything they want they will riot. The Police live in fear that any opposition to the wishes of these people will result in disorder, so much so that they decided that if the British flag was flown in Lye on that day it could spark off a riot!

In Wolverhampton hundreds of coloured immigrants can petrol bomb the police, loot and riot with only 4 of them arrested. Yet in Lye 19 Britons were arrested for merely voicing their objection to a march. A march, in fact, that was an incitement to murder which makes it against British law.

The National Front for the last 20 years has warned the British people of the consequences of coloured immigration, and for much of that time the National Front has stood alone in its opposition to Britain's multi-racial society. We have been smeared and vilified by politician and media alike. Our leaders have been jailed for daring to tell the truth about the nightmare of coloured immigration, and our members subjected to physical attack from our opponents.

Yet we have not wavered. We have stood our ground against all the odds and now, again and again, we are being proved right. If the British people want to hold on to their country then they must stand with the National Front. If they don't then the land that millions of Britons died fighting to defend will be taken from them.



● Asians were allowed to incite murder but Britons were not allowed to fly the Union Jack.

LEGACY OF APPEASEMENT

18 POLICEMEN WERE injured and 101 coloured immigrants arrested as a march by 20,000 Moslems on Saturday 27th May turned into a riot.

Ten years of grovelling by Britain's police forces to ethnic minorities appeared to have cut little ice as the immigrants totally ignored Police requests throughout the proceedings and then finally turned on them at the end of the day.

The Asians marched off from Hyde Park after the police has asked them to wait for 30 minutes to allow traffic to clear. They carried placards calling for the death of Salman Rushdie after they had been asked not to do so. They burnt Union Jack flags and effigies of Rushdie after they had been asked not to, and finally they stoned the Police after they had been asked to disperse.

Such is the legacy of appeasement.

GET BRITAIN OUT!

by Graeme Kemp

ON JUNE 15th nearly 600,000 people in the Birmingham East Euro Constituency will have the chance to vote National Front, a vote against the Common Market. They will have the opportunity to show the Government they don't want to be dictated to by Brussels and want to keep Britain as a sovereign Nation that looks after the interests of the its people.

The EEC is a threat to the freedom and identity of the British people.

National Independence Will End

⋆ The Common Market has destroyed the sovereignty of the U.K. and will continue to do so. More and more decisions over our own affairs will be taken away from Westminster and given to the so-called European Parliament. Nearly a thousand years of national independence will end, as our nation becomes simply a zone within a United States of Europe.

Rootless, Cosmopolitan Super State

⋆ The single European market of 1992 will gradually eliminate the diversity of nations and regions, by allowing the unrestricted flow of goods and people within the EEC. The result will be a rootless, cosmopolitan super-state.

Reduce our Standard of Living

⋆ The Common Market will further reduce our standard of living as we are finally cut off from our kith and kin in Australia, New Zealand and Canada (nations who can supply food more cheaply than many EEC countries).

Increase Centralised Control

⋆ There will be increase in centralised control, as not only political power is given away to the EEC rulers, but also industry gravitates to the centre of Europe. The brain drain will turn into a flood.

More Unemployment

⋆ We can never trust the Common Market bureaucrats. They told us that the EEC was vital to preserving British jobs, yet since our membership unemployment has risen to 3 million.

If the voters of Brirmingham East care about British sovereignty, identity and freedom then they must vote National Front on June 15th.

FRONT TO FIGHT VAUXHALL

THE NATIONAL Front are to fight the Parliamentary by-election for Vauxhall on Thursday 15th June.

Former miner and active trade unionist, Ted Budden is the NF candidate in the constituency where the NF polled 503 votes in the 1983 General Election.

The campaign is already well under way with door to door canvassing of former NF members, many of who are rejoining the party and offering help with Mr Budden's campaign.

JAILED

FORMER WALSALL Mayoress Councillor Liz Powell has been jailed for 12 months after admitting theft and forgery involving more than £16,000.

On Thursday June 15th a council by-election will take place in Blakenall Ward, where Mrs Powell was the councillor, which will be contested by Walsall National Front. Bob Noakes is the NF candidate.

Made Mayor on Payment of Arrears!

MANCHESTER'S NEW Labour Lord Mayor is Yomi Mambu.

Until recently she lived in a council house in Clandon Close Manchester where she had rent and rate arrears of more than £1,500.

Divorced with five children, Yombi has now paid off the arrears and moved into a new council house in Longsight. Her first task after taking office will be to tackle racism in Manchester.

Press Council Member makes hysterical attack on the National Front!

THE NATIONAL Front is calling for the removal of a West Indian member of the Press Council after an hysterical attack in the West Indian newspaper The Voice on the National Front's right to place advertisements in newspapers.

The Press Council is a body that adjudicates on complaints made against Britain's newspapers. It is meant to be impartial and to rule on complaints fairly, taking into account all the 'evidence' involved.

Paul Stephenson, is a Press Council member. He is meant to be impartial and judge cases on their merit, however he has attacked an advertisement placed in the Hull Daily Mail as "offensive and inciting hatred of various people". He said "I will bring the advertisement to the notice of the Chairman of the Press Council as something the Review Committee may wish to pay special attention to".

As a member of the Press Council Mr Stephenson has no right to expound on matters that might be brought before the Press Council. He, as someone who is to judge cases, cannot be a prosecutor of cases. His outburst in The Voice shows he is totally unfit to adjudicate fairly on Press Council matters.

Editor of The Hull Daily Mail, Mike Wood had no concern over the NF advertisement. He said, "The National Front is a legal, political organisation which regularly puts candidates forward for public office. On this basis it has a right to avail itself to advertising facilities made available to other political groups in a democratic society".

The complaint against the NF advert in The Hull Daily Mail is just one of a number of complaints in a campaign by the Labour Party against NF adverts placed in newspapers throughout Britain. The campaign is being led by Labour MP Greville Janner who called upon advertisers to boycott papers which accepted NF adverts.

Waltham Council Labour Councillor, Stephen Jacobs said that the Waltham Forest Guardian was unprincipled in printing an NF advert while another councillor called for a boycott of the paper. An editorial in the paper said "the National Front is a recognised political party. Until it is outlawed, which is doubtful in this country, we will continue to recognise its existence".

● Stephenson: totally unsuitable for the Press Council.

● Janner: Leading the anti-NF attack.

The National Union of Journalists has also joined the campaign against the NF instructing its members and advising Print Union members not to work on National Front material in their papers.

Despite the efforts of the Labour Party the National Front is continuing with its advertsing campaign urging editors to stand by the principle of freedom of speech and to resist the intimidation be it financial or physical from the thugs of the Labour Party.

Front Backs Wind Power Plan

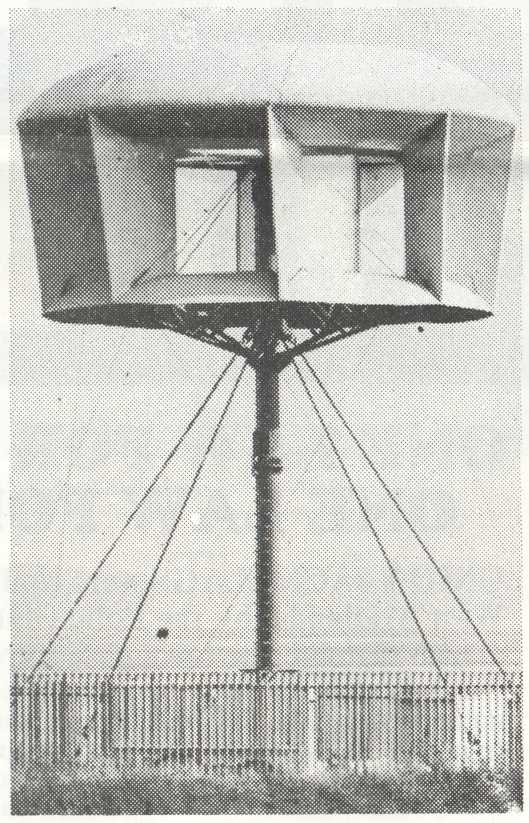
BRITAIN'S ENERGY problems would be solved till the end of time if the nuclear fusion experiments of Professors Fleischmann and Pons are all they are cracked up to be.

They claim that they have created nuclear fusion in a bottle, at room temperature, using little more than water, wire and electricty. The energy produced is clean. The fusion creates no greenhouse gases, no gases that produce acid rain and no radio-active waste. The energy is safe unlike the atomic reactors used in power plants today where brute force, and intense heat is used to bring about the production of energy.

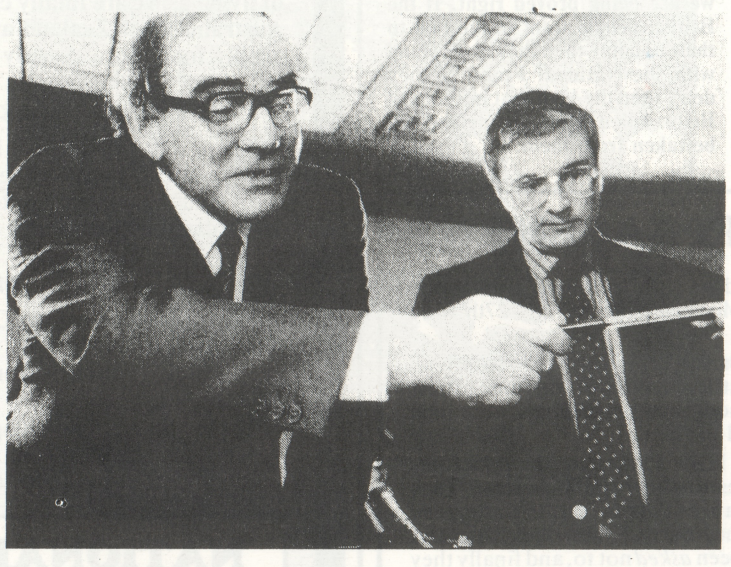
After forty years of un-productive research by scientists, suddenly two unknown chemists have made claims that fly in the face of all previous research into nuclear fusion. It all seemed too good to be true and when the influential science journal Nature returned the Pons/Fleischmann paper criticising its experimental detail, doubts on their findings started to come to light. The two authors refused to give further evidence saying that they were too busy, giving Nature editor, John Maddox, no alternative but to reject the paper because it was "unsupported by the evidence".

While scientists throughout the world try to emulate the nuclear fusion experiments it's reassuring to know that Britain is making strides on her own in the search for clean energy to provide power for the future.

Wind Power, so often just a dream in the minds of ecologists, is on the way to becoming a reality. Last month at Carmarthen Bay, South Wales, the Central Electricty Generating Board unveiled a 330-kilowatt wind turbine, a machine that can produce cleaner, safer and cheaper energy than the latest nuclear reactors.



● Wind power: Energy source with a future.



● Fleischmann & Pons: Still searching for the nuclear fusion dream.

The National Front, in our Statement of Policy in An Introduction to the National Front states:

"Today's major energy sources, coal, oil and nuclear, are all environmentally harmful. Coal and oil-fired power stations cause acid rain, which kills forests and rivers across Europe. Nuclear power produces radioactive wastes, with all their attendant storage problems, as well as leaking radioactive matter into the environment.

Therefore we actively support the research, development and implementation of renewable energy sources, such as wind, wave and hydro-electric power. These not only damage the environment less, and do not run out, they help our nation remain self-sufficient and hence truly independent."

The £26 million British wind energy programme is fully supported by the National Front, and we look forward to the opening of Britain's first three wind parks at Cold Northcott, Cornwall, Langdon Common, Durham, and Capel Cynon Dyfed.

Let The Train Take The Strain!

BRITAIN'S ROADS are in worse condition now than they were in 1977, when annual surveys began.

The Government plans to privatise roads can only make things worse for the motorist with tolls on the popular routes and lack of investment on the less popular ones.

The National Front believes the answer is not in more roads but less cars and the barring of the movement of freight on our highways. More investment in a rail service that is cheap, clean and efficient will solve Britain's transport problems. Our countryside cannot take anymore carving up and our environment is already saturated with pollution from exhaust fumes.

RABIES FOR BRITAIN

PLANS BY the EEC to change the quarantine rules could lead to a rabies outbreak in the UK.

The Common Market proposals are part of an attempt to harmonise customs controls within Europe by the end of 1992 when the single market arrives.

The risk of rabies entering the UK will be doubled if infected dogs are mistakenly certified as disease-free on the Continent and then quarantined only after arrival in the British owner's home town.

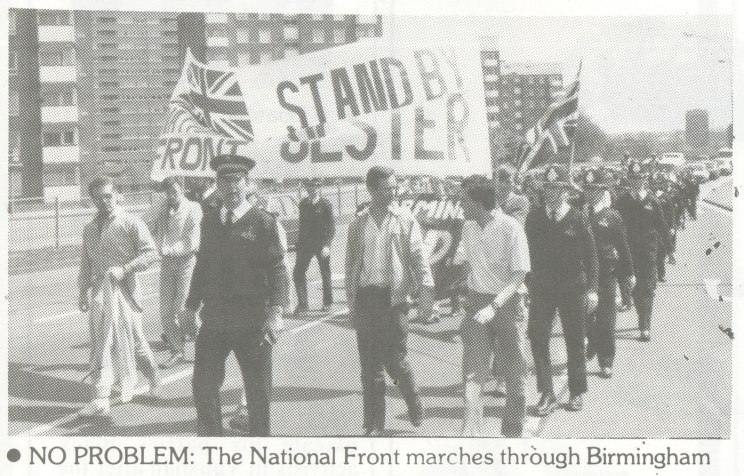
FRONT MARCH IN BIRMINGHAM



● NO PROBLEM: The National Front marches through Birmingham

ON SATURDAY 6th May the pro-IRA Troops Out Movement organised a march in Birmingham to promote their view that Ulster should be handed over to Dublin. Birmingham National Front organised a counter demonstration.

The pro-IRA march was due to start at 2.00pm and go through the city centre, but when news of the NF counter demonstration leaked out the police forced them to bring their march off time forward to 12 noon and their route was severely curtailed.

By 11.30am well over 100 NF members and supporters were gathered 70 yards from the IRA marchers form-up point.

At 12.30pm the NF contingent formed up into columns of three and headed by a banner "Stand By Ulster" and Union Jack flags proceeded to march through Birmingham for the first time since 1982. In bright sunshine and to the applause of the White residents of the Ladywood area of Birmingham 150 members of the National Front proclaimed their opposition to the IRA. At the end of the march a rally was held which was addressed by National Activities Organiser, John Hill and NF Chairman Ian Anderson.

Later in the afternoon more direct opposition to the IRA supporters took place, along with meaningful dialogues with these traitors as they returned to their home towns.

If supporters of the murderers of the IRA venture to promote their views on the streets of Brimingham or any other British town they will always have to face the wrath of British patriots.

Lessons for the Government

THE MARCH by the National Front through a 'racially-sensitive' area of Birmingham without the slightest sign of trouble shows, without a doubt, the nonsense of the Government's policy of banning nearly all NF marches for fear of provoking public disorder.

The only time that trouble accompanies a Front march is when the media have whipped up the Labour Party and ethnic communities to take to the streets to oppose the march. The National Front does not cause the trouble. It is the opponents of the National Front.

By banning NF marches because of threatened violence by its opponents the Government is giving into blackmail, the hallmark of a weak and corrupt leadership.

COVENTRY SETS US ALL AN EXAMPLE

AFTER MUCH media attention, including reports in the Daily Telegraph and the Guardian, The FLAG can reveal that Coventry's committee all abided by their recent decision and adorned their torsos with shirts and ties for their May Branch meeting.

Also in line with their decision it's cups and saucers on the top table with not a beer mug to be seen.

LEFT: Morning papersale sold more than £20.00s worth of papers.

REDS FAIL TO STOP FRONT MEETING

"WE WILL wipe them off the streets of Hemel Hempstead and prevent their meeting taking place", so said Peggy Boateng, secretary of Hemel Hempstead Anti-Racist Council. However her threats proved to be empty on the NF's day of action on Saturday 29th April.

In the morning about a dozen National Front members held a highly successful paper sale in the town centre. The Union Jack flags fluttering in the breeze attracted a good deal of attention and over £20.00s worth of papers were sold. The storm troopers of the Anti-Racist Council didn't seem to fancy their chances in 'wiping us off the streets', instead they handed out some scruffy (and illegal) leaflets most of which ended up in the town's litter bins.

During the lunchtime break in a local pub the numbers of NF activists swelled to 30 and during the afternoon four separate ieafletting teams were in action in the ward.

At 6.30pm a small group of NF officials took possession of Chaulden Junior School which had been booked for a public election meeting. After half an hour more than 70 Reds queued up outside the hall to gain admission to the meeting. Their professed intention to "prevent the meeting" seemed to be forgotten as NF supporters started to arrive.

Inside the hall the Reds joined the 50 NF members and supporters together with some members of the general public. NF Chairman, Ian Anderson was the first speaker, who outlined the NF's economic policy, our opposition to the IRA and our commitment to democracy. A barrage of slogan-chanting was all the opposition could muster to the speech and they soon became disheartened when the public address system was turned up to drown them out.

After half an hour their brains could stand it no longer, and they got up to leave, falling over each other in their haste. One moron tried to set off the fire alarm and was arrested for his trouble. After their departure the meeting continued with speeches from John McAuley, the NF Home Counties North Regional Organiser and the candidate in the election, and Paul Nash, chairman of the Campaign Department. A collection raised over £150.

On polling day only 39% of the electorate of Chaulden Ward bothered to turn out. 77 of those had the courage to vote National Front, nearly 2% of the votes cast.

NURSE SHORTAGE LEADS TO WARD CLOSURE

A GERIATRIC ward at Wythenshawe Hospital in Manchester has had to be closed because of a shortage of nurses.

The South Manchester Health Authority has been forced to close a long-stay ward for severly handicapped geriatric patients and also economise on essential repairs and maintenance.

The Chairman of the authority said that there was no longer sufficient nursing staff at the hospital to keep open all wards for the whole year.

What a shocking state of affairs. The Government has found £40 million in tax reliefs for people with enough money to buy private health insurance yet ignores the plight of the nurses. That money could have provided 3,000 more nurses for the NHS.

The National Front pledges the re-establishment of a totally free Heath Service together with adequate investment to make sure it functions efficiently.

Thatcher's panicking over EEC Immigration

SOURCES CLOSE to the Prime Minster say that she is very concerned that 1992 will see the end of effective immigration controls in Britain.

The right of the EEC's 320 million population to settle in any member state would also be extended to relatives and with Britain's social security and race relations law so attractive many immigrants could be making a bee line for Britain.

● Hard-Line DUP Loyalist Peter Robinson.

● ULDP's Ken Kerr elected for Londonderry

Lack of Direction leads to Loyalist Apathy

THE ULSTER local elections held on May 18th yielded few major surprises. The Loyalist vote held reasonably firm on a low poll, although many more hard-line Loyalists did not bother to turn out to vote for "Councils" which, for fear of annoying the IRA community, have been stripped of power to do more than lift the bins and bury the dead. And, whilst the National Front did not stand this time, some of our friends did, and were elected.

In the traditional Unionist camp, Rev. Dr. Ian Paisley's Democratic Unionists saw their vote drop by 7%, on the previous, 1985, figure, and lost 34 councillors, leaving them with 108. The Official Unionists, whose weakness and blunders in the 1960's led to the "Troubles", only gained 3 seats, showing that most fed-up DUP voters stayed at home. Some, as already stated, because they felt that the election was pointless as the Councils have no power, others in clear protest at the DUP leadership propping up the Official Unionists.

Grass root Loyalist feeling was forcibly expressed by veteran Larne DUP activist and former town Mayor Jack McKee on polling night: after he saw his vote fall and two of his colleagues lose their seats on the town council he forthrightly said: "My party has suffered because of Unionist 'unity'. I am finished with 'Unionist unity' and I am taking my stand as a right-winger". Mr McKee and his colleagues then walked out of the count.

In Castlereagh, hard-line DUP Loyalist Peter Robinson polled a personal best record 3457 first-preference votes, and his wife Iris, in her first contest, also romped home. Clearly Mr. Robinson's unwavering firmness is what voters want from the DUP, not wishy washy deals and dithering.

But if the DUP fared badly, the Northern Ireland Office's tame lapdog Alliance Party, little Sir Echo to the Secretary of State, failed yet again to sell sell-out to the people of Ulster. It gained a paltry four seats, staying below its 1981 figure, on a mediocre poll. Pulling down and postering over Loyalist election posters, carried out on a massive scale by these wimps in North Down and Ards, to name but two areas, did them no good, and for all their bilious lime-green posters splattered across the red-white-and-blue they still are getting nowhere.

Friends of the NF, on the other hand, polled well. The newly-formed Ulster Loyalist Democratic Party, whose magazine, The Ulster, regularly advertises The Flag, won its first council seat. Ex-Royal-Marine Ken Kerr got in in Londonderry's embattled Waterside area. In Carrickfergus, the Protestant Unionists, led by Mrs Elizabeth Seawright, widow of great Loyalist George Seawright, murdered by the IRA, and sister-in-law of NF Scotland Organiser David Seawright, kept their voice on the council. The soundness of that voice can be judged from the excellent relations the NF enjoys with these Loyalists. And an old friend of the NF popped up in an unexpected guise as one of the four "Model Conservatives" elected in North Down. George Green, former Ulster Special Constabulary Association Chairman and Vanguard and SUP stalwart, now "Model Tory" councillor, was a special guest speaker at the rally which followed the NF's 2,000-strong anti-IRA March through London on September 7th, 1974.

The "Model Tories" success in the gin-and-Jag belt of North Down reflects the pathetic longing for a few scraps from Maggie's table on the part of Helen's Bay fur-coat-brigade types. They hope that if they pretend to be Tories long enough the Tory Party will let them join. Then they can be nice and respectable and not be thought anything to do with nasty rough Loyalists. Unfortunately for them and their friends among rank-and-file English Tories who believe yuppies of the World should unite, Thatcher, and those who control her and her Party, have no intention of allowing people from a community they regard as an embarrassment to be quietly disposed of with as little fuss as possible, to get a foot over their door. So the "Model Tories" of Bangor will just have to move physically as well as spiritually to Basingstoke. They will not be missed.

The National Front in Ulster did not feel that the time was ripe to contest elections. But the mood among Loyalists of disillusionment with the 'old guard' Unionist leadership and willingness to try radical alternatives shown by the recent elections gives cause for hope that the time for the NF's electoral seed to fall on fertile soil in Ulster is not far off.

Bishop resigns over Tutu fiasco as . . .

Birmingham Rejects Terrorism

THE PEOPLE of Birmingham gave the thumbs down to an effort by the Suffragan Bishop of Aston to respectibilise Black African terrorism.

The Bishop had invited ANC apologist Bishop Tutu to Birmingham in a move to get the ANC viewpoint over to local people. A number of events were planned including a rally at Villa Park but they all proved a disaster with only a handful of immigrants turning up and a loss of £200,000 made on the visit.

MARCH BANNED

The local council had banned a St George's Day march in the town because it was thought that the Union Jack flags would be offensive to the coloured community and Bishop Tutu.

Now the Bishop of Aston has resigned admitting that he had tried to bring politics into religion and that the general consensus of the people of Birmingham was that Bishop Tutu was associated with terrorism.

He also blamed the National Front for putting water in a generator that caused the abandonment of one of the functions!

Kinnock promoted Black MP Paul Boateng to the Front Bench team in the hope of calming this down. But this has backfired with Black activists calling Boateng a coconut - Black on the outside but White on the inside.

Euro-Election TARGET £4,000

THE RESPONSE to the National Front's appeal to raise money for the Birmingham East and Vauxhall elections has been brilliant. MUNDI FIASCO

HAWKING OFF Britain's heritage to the highest bidder is bad enough but privatising it and selling it off in shares is beyond belief.

But that's what has been done with the Mappa Mundi the thirteenth century map of the world housed at Hereford Cathedral.

The shares have been a flop and the Map will have to be sold off to pay for the fiasco. The church dabbling on the Stock Exchange is against basic Christianity - the Government should have stepped in and bought the map for the nation.

Loans Will Not Help Africa

by Bob Nash

BLACK AFRICA'S poorest countries have admitted they are on the verge of economic collapse and are calling on commercial banks to write off their debts.

This urgent plea has come from twenty-eight black African countries, all of whom are on the list of the forty-two least developed countries. Africa's foreign debts to the industrialized world at present stand at £120 billion and these may soon rise next year to between £150 and £175 billion.

So far the Black African states concerned have been unable to pay off even the interest of these debts. Faced with a crisis amongst a group of its more unstable customers, the International Monetary Fund (I.M.F.) has now agreed to lend these states more credit, even though they are already in arrears to their commercial bank creditors, in order to prevent them from defaulting on their debts.

The end result of this move will be simply to enslave the poorest third world countries even further to the international banks; creating even more misery for their respective peoples.

The National Front says the only way for countries across the world to solve the economically crippling affect of the international system is to repudiate existing debts and instead base their economies on Nationalist principles, where by manufacturing and other goods are paid for by the honest labour of a nations' people and the natural resources of that country. Only in this fashion can free Nations exist and build for a better future.

BACK IN THE POLITICAL ARENA

THE POLITICAL SCENE in Britain is in turmoil. Open disagreements in the Government over policy; the Labour Party changing many of its policies; the Liberal Party changing its name; the astonishing demise of the Social Democrats and none of them able to stem the fastest growing political force - apathy.

With turnouts in recent elections as low as 30% the British public appear to have given up trying to make head or tail of the political manoeuvrings of politicians in their desperate efforts to gain power.

Into this arena has stepped, once again, the National Front contesting both the Vauxhall Parliamentary by-election and the Birmingham East Euro-Election. Campaigning on the same policies as we have done for the last 20 years. Even our worst enemies would admit we are consistent.

Some would say consistently unpopular. They are probably right. The media has portrayed us as Nazis, in 1979; as skinheads in 1983; as football thugs in 1986 and as terrorists in 1987. With such publicity is it hardly surprising that the National Front failed to make any impression during those years?

Well here we are again dipping our toe into the waters of Britain's electoral arena. The same policies, the same beliefs and the same campaign slogans. What will the British public make of it?

The majority of British people believe in what the National Front stands for. We know that, and our opponents know that too. At present our opponents have been able to convince the public that to support the National Front is 'out of the question'. They have eliminated us from political debate because to include us would give us the credibility that would send millions of Britons to the polling booths eager to put their cross by the side of the NF candidate.

Such suffocation of a political party should have killed us off. No self-respecting politician would stay with a political party that is outside the political arena. Our party should have been taken over by cranks and lunatics, as the sane political thinkers left, and dispatched to the litter bin of political history, along with the numerous Marxist/Leninist crank organisations.

It nearly happened, but not quite. At the eleventh hour the National Front was rescued from the cranks and lunatics and for the last three years has been on the road back to sanity.

We have now arrived back at the door of the political arena, and we are coming in to rejoin the party along with its new guests of Salman Rushdie, 3.5 million Hong Kong British passports holders and the Single Market. Some of our old friends are there too . . . Race riots, IRA atrocities and exposed media cover-ups.

The National Front on June 15th will be reaching nearly one million Britons with our message. Whether they vote for us this time is not important - the fact that we are planting the Nationalist seed in their minds to germinate over the next 12 months is what is important.

The fact that the National Front has been able to mount this operation must rate as one of the greatest political comebacks of all times, and the momentum we have gained over the last 6 months has carried the Party through to reach the stage of development we were at in 1975.

Last weekend in Lye 30 NF members turned out to demonstrate against an Asian march calling for the death of Salman Rushdie. The police moved in confident they could stifle the NF demonstration only to find that more than 100 local residents had joined the NF members. British men and women pleased to associate with the National Front despite the media lies and smears.

That is political progress, and mirrored in towns and cities throughout the country will bring the National Front back to the forefront of British politics.

MULTI-RACIAL NIGHTMARE

We Must learn the Lesson of West Africa

THE MULTI-RACIALIST line that only White people can be "racist" and that if it wasn't for "White racism" races would mix in peace and harmony has yet again been proved wrong; this time in weeks of savage racial war in West Africa between Brown Moorish Mauretanians and their Black Negro Senegalese neighbours.

Lax immigration policies in both Mauretania and Senegal had allowed 30,000 Black Senegalese to be shipped into Brown Mauretania as cheap labour, undercutting local workers and putting them out of work in their own country. Whilst 300,000 Brown Mauretanians had swarmed south across the Senegal border, buying up all the shops and businesses and thus putting the Senegalese economy into the hands of foreigners. Both unpleasant consequences of alien immigration Britons know only too well!

Years of growing resentment at racial aliens in their midst on both sides of the Mauretania/Senegal border exploded into savage violence after a shooting incident on that border on April 9th in which two Senegalese farmers died.

In the Senegal capital, Dakar, Black mobs looted and burned out Brown Mauretanian shops and homes. After a week of this, the Mauretanians in their capital, Nouakchott, turned on the Black Immigrants in their midst. In ferocious revenge race riots, over 400 Blacks were beaten to death by Brown mobs. Other Blacks were castrated, reflecting a not unfamiliar local grievance that the Negroes were chasing local women.

This in turn further inflamed anti-Immigrant riots in Senegal, leading to at least 40 Mauretanian deaths. By the beginning of May, both countries were aflame with race war, as the inevitable consequence of racial mixing, whatever races are involved, Enoch Powell's "rivers of blood", flowed in the streets.

Fortunately for them, the fact that the Immigrants, though a different race, came from just over the nearby border allowed the problem to solve itself in the only possible way - repatriation, and the restoration of each land to its own people. Tens of thousands of Mauretanians in Senegal, and Senegalese in Mauretania, set off home in fleets of cars, lorries and planes. With the removal of the alien Immigrant wedge that sparked them, the riots in both countries died down, and peace was restored as another "multiracial experiment" was ignominiously abandoned.

Yet again, multiracialism has failed. As it will in Britain. The only choice we have is whether it fails bloodily, with riot, mutilation and massacre, as it has in West Africa and is doing in Sri Lanka. Or whether, through the peaceful democratic process we choose to solve the problem in a civilised way, by electing a National Front Government which will defuse racial tension by a phased, humane repatriation programme.

The Immigrants will go home eventually anyway. But we offer them the chance to go home safely and with dignity. In Western Europe, as in West Africa, the choice for multiracial society is clear - peaceful repatriation or bloody race war . .

● Rushing to be repatriated: Mauretanians return to their own land

● Mauretanians who never made it to the border.

Don't Let the Shylocks sell you Expensive Credit

EASY CREDIT is allowing families to slip into debt with wives and children suffering.

Families simply do not have enough money to make ends meet and few realize that their house can be repossessed for a debt of as little as £1,000.

Day in day out we are bombarded with advertisements, in the press, on television and through the post, encouraging us to take out loans in many cases to pay off other loans.

The FLAG says:

Don't get credit from anywhere other than a bank and never, never, put your house up as security. If you want to get rid of the sharks hawking their expensive money just refuse to pay any existing credit agreement you have. After a county court action you will be given time to pay what you owe and your name will be put on a credit black list.

This will insure that no shylock will try to sell you money.

Common Market is destroying Britain's Textile Industry

THE EEC will be hammering the final nail in the coffin of the British Textile Industry.

A new Euro-Agreement has been made with Russia allowing exports to be dumped at artificially low prices. This together with the textile agreement made with China to flood Europe with cheap Chinese clothes means the end of the remaining British mills.

British textile workers can't be expected to compete with sweat shop labour from the Far East.

Turkey, on the other hand is protecting its textile industry by sticking two fingers up to Brussels. Despite being ordered not to, the Turkish Government has imposed 122% duties on foreign imports to protect its home market.

The National Front believes Britain should go one step further. Ban all foreign textile imports. All clothes bought in Britain should be made in Britain, in British factories by British workers.

Population Explosion on Indian Continent

INDIA HAS the fastest growing population in the world and will be the largest population by the year 2035.

India has a population of 807 million, second only in size to China, and is rising yearly at the rate of 21 per thousand. Also Indians are now living longer, their average lifespan rising 26 years since 1947 to 58.

The U.N. Population Fund has warned that the world's population could treble by the end of the next century. Fund Director, Nafis Sadik said, "These additions could cripple the development process and would create enormous potential for violence and social upheaval by the millions of young people without any prospect of ever being employed".

The National Front has warned that the birthrate of Asians in Britain will mean that by the year 2068 the British people will be a minority in their own country.

Searchlight Sewage Still Conning the Media!

SEARCHLIGHT THAT appalling hate sheet that spews out lies about the National Front, like a sewage plant in the North-West spews out untreated effluent into Lancashire's rivers, has been caught lying again!

In a recent edition it carried a photo of two women allegedly attending a "top-secret fascist conference in a London hotel".

In fact the two ladies were members of the TUC who were making their way towards a coach taking them to a GCHQ rally in Cheltenham.

So much for Searchlight's research. FLAG readers will no doubt remember that it was Searchlight that landed the BBC in court and having to pay out massive compensation after a Panorama programme which alleged MPs links with British Nationalists.

Let's hope the British press and media will be a little more cautious before reprinting the rubbish published by this grotty little magazine.

Britons Ignored as IBA Favours Ethnic Minorities

THREE NEW franchises for commercial local radio stations have been announced by the Independent Broadcasting Authority.

In Haringey there are two stations London Greek Radio and WNK - both previously pirate radio stations. WNK (Wicked, Neutral & Kicking) is aimed at Afro-Caribbean residents, while London Greek Radio will broadcast music and news from Greece and Cyprus.

In Coventry, Radio Harmony is to run programmes aimed at Asians and West Indians. As well as music, advice and information will be broadcast in their own languages. (I thought they were as British as you and me? - Ed.)

Patriotic Britons, waiting for an unbiased radio station to cater for their needs, have still been ignored by the Independent Broadcasting Authority.

SCUTTLED!

● Navy facing a shortage of helicopter traffic controllers.

THE ROYAL Navy is facing such a severe shortage of personnel that the very future of Britain's role as a serious Naval force is in jeopardy.

The run down of Britain's Navy by this government has led to serious moral problems in the service. So much so that scores of senior ratings and petty officers have left. So many experienced men have left, in fact, that there are not enough to operate the Royal Navy's weapons.

The shortage has led to the remaining officers having to double up on duties and with ships only being sent to sea fully manned it means some men spending more and more time at sea and seldom getting home to see their families.

The Royal Navy admits to:-

- A severe shortage of helicopter traffic controllers.
- A marked shortage of anti-submarine equipment operators.
- A shortage of 14 petty officers and 15 leading seamen in their missile branch.
- A shortage of 38 petty officers in the mine warfare branch.
- A shortage of bosun's mates on most frigates.

The situation is so serious that men are having to be borrowed from the Australian Navy to fill the vacancies.

Government cutbacks threaten Navy

With the Argentinian elections giving power to a man who has pledged to spill blood to capture the Falkland Islands, Britain's navy couldn't be in a worse state at a worse time.

The National Front would initiate a massive ship-building programme for the Royal Navy. The morale of the service would be raised by a recruitment programme that would bring the best brains back to the Navy with pay and condition incentives that acknowledge the importance of their role in protecting Britain.

Changing Places

EVERYWHERE IN the world it seems that Communist tyranny is in retreat. Nationalism is busting out all over. Everywhere people are asserting their right to an ethnic identity, so long subdued by the bludgeon of repressive multiracialist ideology.

Everywhere . . ., well hang on a bit - not exactly everywhere. For here in good old democratic, free-speaking, free-thinking, free-assembling Britain nothing has changed except for the worst. Tyranny reigns supreme and the poor, downtrodden, dispirited British seem either not to care or have been too intimidated to risk being suspected of having noticed the fact.

Those of us who have been around this neck of the political woods for a long time have, in the past, insisted that as the countries of the West were subjugated to the requirements of international capitalism, so capitalism and communism would coalesce into a new world order of tyranny.

Well, things have certainly changed. Capitalism which can deliver the goods, at a price, seems to have routed Communism which has demonstrated that it cannot deliver the goods at any price. The result, however, has not been coalescence but transposition.

The odious Edward Heath recently commended the patience of the Chinese Government in allowing demonstrators to occupy Tiananmen Square for days on end." Can you imagine", he asked, "the British Government allowing Trafalgar Square to be occupied by demonstrators in that manner?"

No, indeed I can't. Any demonstration, especially a nationalist one, would be put down with all the brutality at Margaret Thatcher's command, and that is plenty.

Just recently, too, there have been enormous nationalist demonstrations in the Soviet province of Armenia. These were attended by nationalist delegations from the Baltic states of Latvia, Lithuania, and Estonia who had travelled, apparently without hindrance, across thousands of miles of Soviet territory in order to demonstrate their support. Can you imagine that happening in Britain? You can't. No, neither can I.

For as was conclusively demonstrated during the miners' strike, and with increasing frequency since then, the British have absolutely no right whatsoever to travel freely within the narrow confines of their own country. The National Front, probably the most systematically misrepresented and persecuted political party in Europe, if not in the world, was not only banned from holding a St George's Day march in Rochdale but was effectively denied the right to hold a rally in private premises by police who physically prevented our members from even entering the town.

Such is the reality of our "free society". The new style police force, which seems to have been trained on the omnibus edition of Starsky and Hutch and taught to regard patriotic Britons as the enemy, now apparently regard the law as a petty hindrance. Though the National Front is a legal political party, it may be effectively prevented from operating by any dim clod of a Chief Constable who applies for a ban, invariably granted on the nod. If all else fails, there is always the all-embracing catch-all of the Public Order Act whereby any big-booted moron in blue may, on the merest whim, ban anything he chooses on the grounds of "a threat to public order".

Britain is now one of only a few countries without a Bill of Rights. "But we do not need anything so bureaucratic", say the spokesmen for the Thatcher junta, "when we already have something much better in English Common Law". Ah yes, English Common Law does, or rather did, prevent any person being convicted of a crime unless it could be proved that he had actually committed one. Unfortunately, English Common Law, which had protected the citizen for centuries, was effectively nullified at the insistence of the Jewish lobby on the grounds that it prevented National Front members from being convicted under the Race Relations Act.

I suppose that all this may seem just a little over the top to people who, being too timid to claim their rights, still cling to the delusion that they have some.

Such people might consider the case of the Latvians, Lithuanians, and Estonians who are now demanding the expulsion of the Russian immigrants who have flooded into their countries. While the Russians are of a different nation they are, at least, of the same race. What do our ersatz libertarians suppose is the fate of Britons who campaign for the repatriation of the infinitely more alien immigrants who, in Margaret Thatcher's own weasel words, have "swamped" our country?

The way things are going, Eastern Europe may become not only the last ditch bastion of the White race but also the only refuge from the tyranny that is the inevitable concomitant of multiracialism.

I have always regarded it as a particularly bizarre form of masochism that the Russians should ever have tried to prevent Jews leaving the Soviet Union. Now they have declared that Jews may emigrate whenever they wish. I am seriously considering applying to take their place.

Uncivil Rights

A RECENT article by Sarah Spencer, General Secretary of the National Council for Civil Liberties, bemoans the loss of many of our traditional freedoms.

Quite right too, one is tempted to say.

She also complains of the apparent indifference of the supine British to the erosion of their liberties. Right again.

It is, after all, a pretty shabby state of affairs when the Prime Minister of a Government which should, by any decent standards, be holding the ring and seeing fair play, may openly boast of "curbing the power of the unions (i.e. putting the workers in their place).

There is, moreover, nothing that is more calculated to rouse Madam Thatcher to new heights of flaming fury against the EEC than the merest suggestion by them that the workers have any rights at all.

So we do need someone to defend our liberties. Alas, the NCCL, like its "right-wing" counterpart the Freedom Association, is more dedicated to grinding political axes than honing our freedoms.

The NCCL is not, for instance, in the least bit concerned about the denial of civil rights to the National Front - in fact it considers it to be rather a good thing.

It is, however, greatly concerned with the outrageous denial of free propaganda facilities to the terrorist Sinn Fein; with the refusal to allow left-wing Councils to promote homosexuality; with the denial of unrestricted immigration to black aliens; with the violation of "Church sanctuary" involved in the deportation of the black illegal immigrant Viraj Mendis - a strange concern this for an organisation which is wholly secular and in many cases atheistic.

It should not be thought, however, that the NCCL is wholly anti-Government. It praises the Thatcher junta for tightening up enforcement against "incitement to racial hatred". So there you have it.

A telling comment on the "liberal" attitudes of the professional bogus libertarians was provided by the case of Mr Michael Fumento who visited Britain recently.

Mr Fumento comes from America, the very home of the civil rights industry. He is a specialist on AIDS and was employed by the US commission on Civil Rights to investigate the causes of the disease.

Apparently unaware that he was being paid to report that "we are all guilty", Mr Fumento concluded that AIDS was primarily due to homosexuality and that heterosexuals ran virtually no risk of contracting the disease. He furthermore had the temerity to publish a book entitled "The Myth of Heterosexual AIDS".

The American Commission on Civil Rights, alas, showed scant respect for his objectivity and even less for his civil rights.

Mr Fumento was sacked.

There's Always Othello

I MUST confess to being considerably underwhelmed by the news that the site of the sixteenth century Rose Theatre, in which Will Shakespeare reputedly acted, has been discovered in darkest Southwark. But then, you see, I'm not exactly enthralled by archaeology. In the past I've been invited to view the remains of a newly-discovered Roman villa which consisted, I recall, of several rows of empty post holes which, I was assured, were the main supports for a magnificent Roman edifice. In addition there were several misshapen sections of mosaic tiling, these, allegedly, being the floor of the "bath house".

From these, and other equally unlikely exhibits, maniacal archaeologists had deduced that the place had been occupied by an elderly Romanised Briton who hadn't been able to run fast enough to escape being butchered by woad-infested Welshman way back in the fifth century.

My reaction, alas, was not to gasp with awe at such erudition but an irresistible urge to ask for my money back.

As for the furore over the tatty basement of the Rose Theatre; I do not consider that Britain is so short of excellent 16th century buildings that we need to preserve the remnants of one at the expense of the taxpayer. Most modern cities are built on the ruins of earlier ones and London is no exception. Britain is not to be regarded as a museum even if it does sometimes resemble a run-down museum being used as a squat by the surplus population of half the world.

The state-subsidised theatrical persons are, naturally, in full agreement with Shakespeare that "all the world's a stage" and that they are entitled to all the money in it, but did they ever consider the irony of creating a monument to a great English past in an area where England has virtually ceased to exist and whose population make-up bears testimony to our contemptible present and our tenuous future? I suppose, though, that the numerous thespian poofters involved in the demonstration were more interested in posterior than posterity.

Moreover, will Shakespeare's work be allowed to survive into our multiracial millenium? Possibly Othello will, as a monument to White perfidy and Black nobility, and as a relic of an age where the leading actor actually needed a plentiful supply of burnt cork.

For Shakespeare was a terrible racialist who considered Englishmen to be immeasurably superior to foreigners - those "men of grosser blood".

Just think, if the Race Relations Act had been in force in Shakespeare's time, they would not be excavating the site of the theatre where he acted but rather the site of the prison where he was incarcerated for most of his natural life.

Will History Repeat Itself over the Poll Tax?

In Scotland over 20,000 people marched through Edinburgh in protest against the introduction of the Poll Tax.

In the year 1381, 14 year-old King Richard II and his barons tried to enforce a new Poll Tax to finance his wars. The people of Kent and Essex rose in rebellion and marched on London, the leader of the Kent army being Watt Tyler, a craftsman and roofer.

Although Tyler was stabbed to death by the Mayor of London and one of his henchmen, all was not lost. The King dropped the tax and the marchers returned to their homes.

Recently thousands of people from Kent marched in London again. This time they were protesting against the plans by British Rail 'barons' to destroy their homes and countryside to make way for railway lines to a tunnel that we do not want.

When the Poll Tax comes to Kent, no doubt history will repeat itself and the people again will march on London. This time, however, it is unlikely that the Queen (Mrs Thatcher) will change her mind!

Hoodwinked

I think The FLAG should give more attention to the possible influx of immigrants from Hong Kong leading up to 1997. A report in the DAILY TELEGRAPH by Christopher Lockwood (20.4.89), showed that politicians are considering ways to allow Hong Kong Chinese immigrants into Britain in a way that won't cause a political backlash from white Britons.

John Swaine, a member of the Hong Kong executive council, suggested the following solution: "if it proved too hard politically to give residency rights to Hong Kong people, they should at least be able to have readmission rights, which would mean that after five years' residence in Britain they could qualify for citizenship".

In other words the British people would be hoodwinked into accepting a potentially huge number of Chinese - on a permanent basis. We have been warned.

Timely

Your report on the Government's move away from using our Naval Dockyards is timely. There are a number of organisations which have already taken up the challenge of fighting this dangerous line of thinking whereby the defence of the country will eventually lie in the hands of private contractors who can pick up or put down the maintenance of Britain's Navy according to whether the price is right.

All right minded citizens of our country must use every avenue available to stop what is a direct assault on the defence of Britain.

Low Morale

I write to inform you of the low morale in the nursing profession. In the past we have put up with poor money because the job satisfaction made up for the shortfall in salary. With the future of the NHS in doubt now that satisfaction has gone.

I write also to inform you of a movement within the nursing profession that has welcomed the Government White Paper as the vehicle for starting a dispute. The ring leaders of this group are new to the profession and have little interest in the future of the NHS, they are only interested in bringing the system to a halt to cause a crisis for the Government.

Between these people and the Government the nurses have been squeezed and left totally disillusioned.

The National Front must continue its support for a totally free Health Service.

Mrs P. Cartwright,
Holborn,

"They have given us into the hand of new unhappy lords.
Lords without anger and honour, who dare not carry their swords.
They fight by shuffling papers; they have bright dead alien eyes;
They look at our labour and laughter as a tired man looks at flies.
And the load of their loveless pity is worse than the ancient wrongs.
Their doors are shut in the evening; and they know no songs".

G.K. Chesterton (1874-1936)

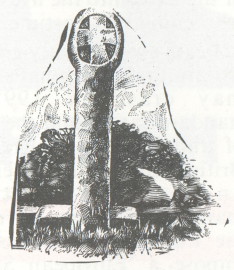
Conservation of the British Race



by Andrew Lightfoot

I DRAW your attention to an irony. Although the British people are dedicated conservationists, they ignore the most important conservation of all: the British Race.

Why, on the one hand, is their cultural Nationalism aroused, and then, on the other hand their political Nationalism quiescent? The answer is, of course, that cultural Nationalism is fashionable. This hypocrisy which is largely of media origin - racialism is un-British and indecent - is fuelling the engine of multi-racialism, the myth of racial equality so highly prized by the establishment traitors.

To quote Orwell:

"At any given moment there is an orthodoxy, a body of ideas which people will accept without question. A genuinely unfashionable opinion is almost never given a fair hearing in the popular press or in the highbrow periodicals".

Some cultural Nationalists, although blinkered in their outlook, are potential recruits for the National Front being made of the right timber. But unless a greater note of urgency is struck by our Movement these cultural Nationalists will never recognise that. Whatever sucess is achieved in preserving our cultural heritage, it will be futile if we do not preserve our racial heritage.

After all, what is the point of preserving Britain's architectual heritage (churches, castles, the Rose Theatre etc) if we do not preserve the British Race - the decendants of the people who built it?

The English Folk Dance and Song Society keep alive our national customs. How many immigrants are Morrismen?

"God gave each people a definite territory to live in, grow in and on which to develop and create its own culture."

The Council for the Protection of Rural England plays a unique role in defending our natural heritage. How many immigrants are ruralists?

The National Trust is the largest private landowner and conservation society in Britain. How many of its members are immigrants?

● How many immigrants are Morrismen?

● No point in preserving buildings if we don't preserve our Race

The people who run these heritage societies may be pro-British, but they seem, on the face of it, to have the political understanding of infants. Their attitude is interesting because it tells us about human nature. It tells us about the lengths to which people will go in order to be 'decent' and 'respectable'.

For many it is more 'comfortable' to live in a multi-racial society than support the National Front. The latter is essential if Britain is to survive. It is hard to conceive the levels of passiveness and complacency that have allowed our Nation to come to the brink of extinction. In a mere eighty years the British will be a minority in their own country.

Only a National Revolution will combat the soul deadening values of multi-racialism and junk food materialism. Those who stand by and allow the destruction of Britain and the British people are as guilty as those who have brought this plague upon our house.

I could have seen the sunshine,
I could have known the spring.
I could have watched the robins fly.
I could have heard them sing.
I could have smelled the flowers,
I could have felt the snow.
The things you take for granted,
Are things I'll never know.

You could have heard my laughter,
You could have dried my tears.
You could have watched me playing,
And growing through the years.
You could have shown me rainbows,
God painted in the sky.
You could have held me in your arms,
Instead you made me die.

I might have been your daughter,
I might have been your son.
I might have learned to crawl,
And stand and walk and even run,
I might have felt you hug me,
As your milk began to fill me,
I might have called you Mum.
But instead you chose to kill me.

They say "Have an abortion,

I haven't drawn a breath.
My heart beats in my mother's womb,
As they sentence me to death.

If only you'd have loved me,
Like only mother's do.
If only you'd have given me,
What your mother gave to you.
The gift of life,
The gift of love,
With me you could have shared.
I could have seen the sunshine,
If only you'd have cared.

Facts To Remember

by Sid Campbell

IT CAN be useful to have at one's fingertips quotes made by former British politicians relevant to today's issues.

Recently Edward Heath has said on a number of occasions that Winston Churchill would be proud of our entry into the Common Market - this is rubbish.

Fact:
Winston Churchill,
House of Commons 11/5/53:

"We are with Europe, but not of it. We are linked, but not comprised. We are associated, but not absorbed, and should European Statesmen address us and say 'Shall we speak for thee?' We should reply 'Nay Sir for we dwell among our own people'.

In the last stage of being Prime Minister he asked for a Nationality Act to be drafted to stop immigration, unfortunately his health made him step down and the legislation was dropped.

Of course Churchill also made the now famous observation concerning Foreign Aid "We Feed, They Breed".

These are three facts which should be used by NF members when our opponents try to drag in Winston Churchill to support their arguments.

Standing Up for the Soccer Fan!

THE MUCH maligned British soccer fan took a bashing in the media yet again on Saturday 27th May when England met Scotland at Hampden Park.

Days before the game newspapers and television alike broadcast that the Police were expecting trouble at the match with 'sø-called' England supporters come up to Glasgow looking for a punch-up. No doubt this news encouraged another couple of 100 mindless hooligans to arrive in the city to partake in the action.

WORLD WAR III

Our TV screens showed the usual scenes of gangs of youths charging up a road chasing another gang of youths with the odd skirmish breaking out. The lurid commentary of the news report made it sound like World War III.

In the minds of the British people the whole of the attendance at the match were tarred with the hooligan brush because of the actions of a handful of lunatics.

MINORITY

Yet in London on the same day scenes one hundred times worse took place at Westminster with mobs of Asians stoning the police. Here the reporters bent over backwards to inform the public that the majority of the Asian demonstrators were well behaved and only a tiny minority caused the trouble.

TARNISH

Isn't it about time reporters took the same care not to tarnish the image of the football supporter by associating them with the tiny minority of people who attend football games with the sole purpose of causing trouble?

Isn't it about time someone starting standing up for the millions of Britons who watch and enjoy football week-end after weekend without ever getting involved in the much talked-about soccer violence?

E.E.C. RULING COULD COST LIVES

by Caralyn Taylor

MOST READERS must be aware of The FLAG's preoccupation with racing, and whilst this lies near to the bottom of my list of favourite sporting interests, I do however possess a keen interest in horses themselves.

As a horse owner/rider I am concerned with the interference of the EEC into the lives of those who enjoy this pastime.

Fears are currently growing in Britain that riding hat standards may crash in 1992 with standardisation and the removal of trade barriers. Currently, the British hat is of a higher quality and is 'the best', but manufacturers are worried that the European Commission will impose a 'European Standard' on hats, which will lower the standards already in existence in this country.

The Germans for example have 'D.I.N.' which is the equivalent of our British Standards Institution. However D.I.N. only does a one-off test, while the BSI keeps testing every new batch of hats and carries out spot checks at factories to keep manufacturers on their toes.

Mr Anthony Wakeham, Secretary of the British Equestrian Trade Association, has said "Once they have certification, there is nothing to stop unscrupulous manufacturers from trying to slip in hats below the standard. They will only be caught by default when somebody is injured or killed".

This is yet further evidence of our National Sovereignty being chiselled away by the EEC. This time Common Market meddling could well cost the lives of British horse riders.

A System That Stinks

THE APPOINTMENT of Ted Dexter as England cricket supremo is already having the desired effect on the national team.

In the three one-day tests against the Australians there was a new sense of urgency about the side with even the appalling Gower abandoning his laid-back outlook on the game.

While it must be said that the Australians look a below par side for contesting the Ashes, the series of Test Matches will show whether England has adopted a new approach to the game.

What is worrying is the lack of new young talent coming through from the county sides. This is due to the treasonable overseas player rule which denies opportunities to young players trying for a county side place because a West Indian, Indian, South African, Pakistani or Australian is on loan to his county.

It's a system that stinks and something that Ted Dexter must campaign against from the outset.

BRITISH SUCCESS IN BELGIUM

BRITISH GOLFERS came first, second and third in the Belgium Open last month.

Yorkshire's Gordon J. Brand won his first major tournament after 13 years of trying. Four shots behind him came Kevin Dickens, whose £22,200 second prize was one hundred times the amount he had won prior to the tournament. He finished one stroke ahead Mark Davis from Thorndon Park.

Gordon Brand's performance puts him in line for a place in Britain's Ryder Cup team.

LET THEM BOYCOTT THE GAMES

EXCELLENT NEWS from Addis Ababa. The Organisation of African Unity (OAU) has threatened an African boycott of the Commonwealth Games in Auckland, New Zealand, in January following the brave decision by the Rugby Football Union to allow England players to play in South Africa in August.

The RFU decision follows that of similar decisions by the Welsh and Scottish rugby boards.

Hopefully the Commonwealth Games will now be cancelled and beleaguered Britons will be saved from a winter onslaught of African and West Indian prowess on the athletic track and all the nauseating adjectives from David Coleman and Ron Pickering that goes with it.

There can be nothing more ridiculous than comentators getting excited over a West Indian running in a British vest beating West Indians running in Canadian, New Zealand or Australian vests.

They should all run for the West Indies and be proud to represent their country.

FLAG TIPS

NOT A very fruitful month for The FLAG punters with only Domrun running - and not very fast at that. This month we are avoiding the Classics and looking for horses that might set up a sequence of wins.

Athens Gate, Robert Sangster's rather disappointing miler is coming into some sort of form. He ran well at the Chester meeting and again at Sandown on Bank Holiday Monday. Once he gets his head in front, from his present handicap mark, he looks likely to go from strength to strength.

Indian Uprising from Richard Hannon's stable is another likely to make the winner's enclosure this month. Lightly run he is now getting the hang of the game.

Finally Guy Harwood's Zero Watt, who ran a cracking race at the end of last month against class stayers can pick up a number of the top 2 mile races.
